Edmonton's $2.8B man

► Oilers owner the only Edmontonian on list of 100 richest in Canada ► Meeting is planned with Katz, mayor, city manager and NHL commissioner next week ► Arena update coming to council on Oct. 14

He is now the 18th richest man in Canada as opposed to the 16th, but Daryl Katz's net worth has increased.

According to Canadian Business magazine, Katz, in the drugstore and professional-sports businesses, has a net worth of $2.8 billion, an eight per cent increase from 2010.

Scott Hennig, Alberta director for the Canadian Taxpayers Federation, thinks the new number may sway the way some think about the proposed downtown arena.

"He's worth almost $3 billion and he is sitting in front of city council asking for their assistance," he said.

"Obviously he's ... wealthy for a reason," added Mike Leskow, who helped organize a rally against the plan in June. "(But) this should have nothing to do with the city.

"The city is taking all the risk."

Wildrose sprouts anti-Redford campaign

Premier designate Alison Redford is being accused of not standing up for Albertans as a cabinet minister under Ed Stelmach in new ads put out by the Alberta Wildrose party.

The spots launched Thursday show Redford in poor lighting behind the former premier, and charge that she hasn't kept promises made while running for the Tory leadership.

Meanwhile, Wildrose's Danielle Smith is touted as "standing up for what's right."

"It's important that we point out those differences to Albertans," a voiceover intones. METRO

Downed pilot flew in thick fog

Those close to a pilot who was killed on Wednesday when his helicopter went down in a farmer's field say he and his family were new to Drayton Valley.

The man, said to be in his 30s, moved recently from the oilpatch to a trailer near the municipal airport.

The helicopter was operating at full power, the Transportation Safety Board said. Thick fog may have been a factor in the crash.

Investigators are still on the scene, about 140 kilometres southwest of Edmonton. METRO

Edmontonians pay tribute to Steve Jobs

▶ Flowers, notes and, of course, an apple left outside South Centre Apple store ▶ The man behind the iPhone, iPad called 'an absolute visionary'

SHELLEY WILLIAMSON

News of the death of Apple co-founder Steve Jobs on Wednesday sent shockwaves not only across the globe, but also throughout the tech community closer to home.

A memorial grew on Thursday outside Edmonton's South Centre Apple store, and social-media sites trended tributes to the man who co-created the household name in computers.

Cam Linke, of Edmonton's Touch Metric, was shocked to learn Jobs had died.

"I am still probably in disbelief. I just assumed he was going to fight it," said Linke, a self-professed fanboy and owner of an Apple phone, tablet and computer.

"Everything he built was huge for me and my company," he said.

Calling him "an absolute visionary," Linke said Jobs' outlook on life after learning he had cancer was as inspirational as his work.

Shirley Main paused near the tribute at the Apple store, where it was business as usual.

"I absolutely adore my Mac," Main said. "But it wouldn't have occurred to me people would do this."

Main said her only concern was for Apple's future with the loss of its former CEO.

"It's going to be hard for a successor to succeed him. He was a genius."

▶ Steve Jobs started Apple with his high school friend Steve Wozniak in a Silicon Valley garage in 1976. They created their first computer, the Apple 1, soon after.

An Ellerslie-area resident wants an eyesore removed from the street near her home.

A white Mustang currently at 8 Avenue and Edwards Drive has been parked in the area with a wrecked front end for about two months, said Kathryn Curry.

But now it's even worse, since someone vandalized the windows with profanity and obscene pictures about three weeks ago.

"The car was an eyesore long before the vandalism," she said. "But I would say that whoever marked it up made it worse of an eyesore for the community."

Curry said the car has "received six to eight orange stickers in the last couple months," which she assumed were from the city.

"It seems that as long as the stickers get removed, the car doesn't disappear," she said.

According to city parking enforcement co-ordinator Erin Blaine, a vehicle assumed abandoned is ticketed with a 72-hour warning, otherwise there's a three-ticket rule unless a vehicle is deemed unsafe.

But action is generally taken only if the city receives a complaint, said Blaine.

Alberta student fees tops in country: StatsCan

SHELLEY WILLIAMSON
@METRONEWS.CA

Alberta students are tops in a new category, but perhaps not one to write home about.

Unless it's to ask for cash.

According to a Statistics Canada report, the province's university students shell out for the highest mandatory non-instructional fees at $1,399.

Tuition is also slightly above the national average.

"While we do have a cap for tuition, non-instructional fees are not regulated," said Farid Iskander, the U of A Students' Union vice-president, external.

Iskander said he, along with student-union members from the University of Lethbridge and University of Calgary, have been lobbying Education Minister Dave Hancock.

"We're looking for a little more transparency," said Matt McMillan, the University of Calgary's vice-president external.

"Our main concern at the University of Calgary is that tuition by another name still means paying more for education," he added.

Details

► In contrast to Alberta, Newfoundland and Labrador university students pay the lowest undergraduate non-instructional fees at $212.

► While tuition places Alberta behind three other provinces in terms of costs, students still pay above the national average of $5,336, at $5,662 for undergraduates.

► Newfoundland and Labrador tuition is the lowest at $2,649, the same level since 2004, while Ontario students pay the most at $6,640 on average.

► International-student tuition for undergraduate study increased by 4.3 per cent over last year, with students from outside Canada paying $17,571 on average.

► Non-instructional fees go to things like health and dental plans and athletics, but sometimes are charged for non-specified uses and are currently not regulated.

Lighting up the dark and warming up the cold

Our northern city will be celebrated at the upcoming Metropolis, a winter festival to be held at Sir Winston Churchill Square Dec. 31 to Feb. 20.

Set in a series of six heated pavilions, the fete will kick off New Year's Eve and run every weekend through Family Day.

Made of scaffolding, illuminated and covered in shrink wrap, the structures will include an observation tower, a community centre for performing arts and a children's pavilion with 13-metre slide.

There will also be an information-technology pavilion, a brew house, and a Taste of Winter, featuring up to 11 restaurants each weekend.

"Metropolis is a creative, dynamic project that showcases our winter-construction skills," said Mayor Stephen Mandel at the event launch Thursday. "I think creator Giuseppe Albi has hit a home run here."

Dogs may be man's best friends, but that doesn't mean they can't help one another out, too.

Dr. Tracy Kerr, one of the vets at the clinic, said there is a national blood bank for dogs they can access.

Edmonton Oilers fans are pumped.

It's a new hockey season and this is Oil Country, after all.

As the NHL team gets ready to kick off its 2011-12 season against the Pittsburgh Penguins at Rexall Place on Sunday, fans are getting ready too.

Titanic fascinates nearly 100 years later

► Exhibit features almost 200 artifacts ► Visitors re-live passenger stories

As the 100th anniversary of the sinking of the Titanic approaches, fascination with the famous shipwreck shows no signs of waning.

To that end, the Telus World of Science is hosting Titanic: The Artifact Exhibition, a re-creation of life aboard the fateful ship.

Starting Saturday through to February 2012, visitors will be drawn back in time upon entry, as each gets a replica boarding pass of an actual Titanic passenger.

Passengers then journey through the life of Titanic, from the ship's construction, to life on board, to the sinking and artifact-rescue efforts.

Lowell Lytle, who acts as Titanic's Capt. EJ Smith, will be on hand as the exhibit opens.

"Titanic brought the wealthiest and poorest of people together for one climactic moment," he said. "You couldn't make that story up."

Lytle is one of few who has been on a salvage expedition, calling it an exciting, fearful and ultimately lonely experience.

He even uncovered one of Titanic's seven telegraphs, used to relay commands to the engine room.

Said to be unsinkable, the Titanic hit an iceberg off the coast of Newfoundland in April 1912. More than 1,500 people died while some 700 survived the disaster.

► Lowell Lytle, as the Titanic's Capt. EJ Smith, oversees artifacts recovered from the wreck that are at an exhibit opening at the Telus World of Science this weekend.

Jobs' vision hailed by Canadian tech industry

► Apple co-founder's work made current app boom possible, Canadian companies say ► Memorials pop up outside Apple stores across the country

Canada's app developers, who have made everything from games to cooking to sports applications for the iPhone and iPad, recalled on Thursday how Apple founder Steve Jobs gave them a livelihood and a purpose.

"At its core, there wouldn't be anything that we're doing without the App Store, without the iPhone, without Steve," Kerry Morrison, CEO of Vancouver-based app developer EndLoop, said Thursday.

"Every single person in here — their livelihood, the homes that they've bought, the cars that they drive — everything has been paid for by what he has done," Morrison said of EndLoop and sister company Massive Damage, which employ 14 people.

Jobs, 56, died Wednesday after a battle with cancer.

Condolences poured in from across the country, from users of the popular iPhone, iPod and iPad products, to the executives of Canadian companies who have either struggled to compete with Apple's cutting-edge products or benefited from their popularity.

"Steve Jobs was a great visionary and a respected competitor," Mike

Lazaridis and Jim Balsillie, co-CEOs of rival Research In Motion, said in a state-

"Steve's passion for simplicity and elegance leaves a legacy that will endure."

RIM, developer of the BlackBerry smartphone, has arguably suffered the most from the rise of the iPhone, but also helped build an audience for the phone technology that Apple cultivated further.

Nokia chief executive Stephen Elop, a graduate of McMaster University in Hamilton, Ont., reacted on his Twitter account.

"Steve's passion for simlicity and elegance leaves a legacy that will endure," said Elop, who was born in Ancaster, Ont.

Nokia Corp., once the world's dominant cell-phone maker, has been overtaken by its chief rival Apple, whose iPhones sold more than all Nokia smartphone models during the second quarter.

For Morrison, Apple's App Store has given developers a tool for worldwide access to consumers.

"Being able to sell locally is great. Being able to sell nationally is even better. But to sell globally, that's what makes everything possible."

Riot police storm Santiago streets

▶ Chilean student protesters' demands for education reform met with tear gas and truncheons

Police in Santiago used water cannons and tear gas to break up a student march for free public education on Thursday, hours after protesters' talks with the Chilean government collapsed.

A huge deployment of riot police surrounded demonstrators in downtown Santiago, where student leader Camila Vallejo tried to lead the march while holding a sign saying "United and Stronger," only to be pummelled by water cannons and forced to retreat by tear gas.

Protesters hurled rocks at police and set blockades ablaze in the streets as officers on horseback chased students onto nearby cam-

Chilean spring

► Thursday's march was the 37th weekly protest since April, when students began rallying against Chile's largely privatized education system.

- Students are demanding more spending and higher taxes on the wealthy to fund free public education.

► Polls show 89 per cent of Chileans support the students' call for reform.

puses.

Students occupied the Alameda, one of Santiago's main avenues, by dancing in large numbers, but were blasted with water. Small groups managed to elude officers and approach the presidential palace before being beaten back.

Vallejo said officers shot tear gas into their student offices in "a direct attack against our organization." He called the police crackdown unprecedented.

President Sebastian Pinera is planning to criminalize the protests, proposing penalties of up to three years in prison for participating. He also wants to enable police to demand images taken by photographers and camera crews without a judicial warrant.

Reporters Without Borders condemned the proposal as an attack on freedom of expression.

I spy, you spy online norm for teens: Poll

► 'It's never private,' advocate says

More young people these days say they've had their Internet accounts hacked or spied on. Many also say they know who did it and don't seem too bothered.

An Associated Press-MTV poll finds three in 10 U.S. teens and young adults have had people log on to their Facebook, Twitter, MySpace or other Internet accounts and either impersonate or spy on them. That's nearly double the level seen in 2009.

The poll found solid majorities saying they knew who was behind it: 72 per cent for spying, 65 per cent for hacking.

Richard Lindenfelzer, 20, says it happened to him, but it was more innocent and playful than anything else.

He has walked away and left his laptop logged into

Hack attacks

► Two-thirds of those who had been hacked said they've changed their email, instant messaging or social-networking password in response to digital abuse. Forty-six per cent have altered their email address, screen name or phone number, and 25 per cent have deleted a social-networking profile.

Facebook at times and a roommate has seized the opportunity to fiddle with Lindenfelzer's page, writing silly things about love interests or potty humour. "It's meant to be funny," said Lindenfelzer, a junior at Ithaca College in New York. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Concerns over Wall Street practices and economic inequality that have led to sit-ins and rallies in New York and elsewhere reverberated up to the White House on Thursday, with U.S. President Barack Obama saying the protesters are expressing the frustrations of the American public.

Social media keeps diplomats on their toes

A U.S. State Department official says Twitter and Facebook are having a big impact on how Washington interacts with the world.

Christina Tribble says diplomats' growing use — and awareness of — social media "has ... fundamentally shifted the way that we have to reach out, the issues that we think about."

The State Department's senior adviser for social media said Thursday night the usual backroom discussions to craft a message before it goes out has become a luxury most can no longer afford.

Tribble told the Geneva School of Diplomacy that because of "the speed that these technologies work at, there's no way that we can consult with Washington" beforehand all the time.

Energy-drink caffeine capped

► Feds announce new rules for drink makers ► Changes to include labelling

The federal government will impose limits on the amount of caffeine that energy drinks may legally contain, Health Minister Leona Aglukkaq said Thursday, but won't restrict where they may be sold.

Ottawa also plans to require manufacturers to provide consumers with more information about high-caffeine beverages, Aglukkaq said.

Her announcement stopped short of recommendations by the Expert Panel on Caffeinated Drinks convened by Health Canada. It had called for energy drinks to be sold over the counter in pharmacies, like painkillers and other medications.

"I believe today's changes will be especially helpful to the parents of teenagers who regularly consume energy drinks,"

Aglukkaq said.

Until now, energy drinks — like Red Bull, Monster Energy and Rock Star — were not required to display a nutritional facts table. The change means that most energy drinks will be classified as a food, which means nutritional facts must be displayed on every can. They had previously been classified as natural-health products.

The government anticipates the transition in labelling will take between 18 and 24 months.

The change brings Canadian labelling in line with the United States and European countries.

"As a parent, I need to have access to as much information as possible, to help us as a family make decisions when it comes to what we eat and drink," Aglukkaq said.

JOBS AT HEART OF APPLE

'HE WAS CHARISMATIC'

Tech columnist Dan Gillmor has covered Apple for two decades.

What would Apple be had Jobs not returned?

Nowhere near where it is now. Apple's success would not have happened without Steve Jobs.

Describe his leadership.

He was charismatic and built a brilliant team, and he had the ability to persuade others about the power of things. He also had an incredible instinct for design, and instinctively knew what people would like.

How does Bill Gates compare to Steve Jobs?

Microsoft makes good products, but nobody would argue that Windows and Microsoft Office have the elegance that Apple products do.

Where does Apple go now?

They have momentum that will carry them a long way. ... The company will have to change. The big question, of course, is how it will change. ● METRO WORLD NEWS

Jobs a genius at spotting talent, pals say

► The world has lost an amazing human being: New Apple CEO Tim Cook

ELISABETH BRAW

NEWS@METRONWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON, U.K.

Steve Jobs, born in California 56 years ago to a young cash-strapped couple, achieved the kind of world domination that few could have foreseen.

Not everyone could afford Jobs's sleek products, but most knew about them.

Apple's initial goal was quite modest. "We didn't think that computers would be able to play sophisticated games, play songs or do video editing, or even that the Internet would exist," said Steve Wozniak, who co-founded Apple with Jobs.

"We thought people would use computers at home for very simple things, like organizing their recipe collection."

However, Jobs raised the bar. At age 27, he recruited PepsiCo exec John Sculley as Apple's CEO with the question, "Do you want to spend the rest of your life selling sugared water, or do you want a chance to change the world?"

"Like one's best teachers, Steve set the bar high and moved it even higher," says Dean Hovey, founder of design firm IDEO, which created the groundbreaking Apple mouse.

Jobs got the idea for the mouse at Xerox's Palo Alto Research Center (PARC) in Silicon Valley. "He was a genius in how he spotted ideas and talent," said Hovey.

"He got fanatical about it. PARC inspired him with a lot of stuff, but it doesn't mean that they had a product that everyone could use. And his appreciation for aesthetics increased over time."

Jobs famously didn't use consumer focus groups: He didn't think people knew what they'd like. Instead he trusted his own instinct, and with every new product he was proven right.

"Apple has lost a visionary and creative genius," wrote Apple CEO Tim Cook in an email to the staff.

"Steve leaves behind a company that only he could have built, and his spirit will forever be the foundation of Apple."

Canada's wealthiest down billions in 2011

► Meanwhile, going strong is Lululemon Athletica founder Chip Wilson with estimated worth of $2.85B

For once it wasn't a case of the rich getting richer.

According to the latest edition of Canadian Business magazine, many of Canada's wealthiest have actually seen their fortunes shrink in the past year.

But none of the leading names on the Top 100 list is exactly claiming poverty either, including the perennial top finisher, Toronto's Thomson family whose wealth shrank an estimated 8.7 per cent from 2010. Canadian Business estimates the Thomson family fortune currently stands at $21.34 billion, down more than $2 billion from last year.

Also a little worse off this year is No. 2 on the list, supermarket magnate Galen Weston, with an estimated worth of $8 billion, down 5.8 per cent, and the Rogers family of cable TV and cellphone fame. It came in No. 4 with a fortune that was down 1.3 per cent at $5.94 billion.

Doing a little better year-over year was the Irving family of Saint John, N.B., up 4.5 per cent at $7.8 billion and No. 3 on the list, and Vancouver's Jim Pattison, No. 5 at $5.73 billion, up 3.7 per cent.

All of those in the top five maintained the same rankings they enjoyed in 2010. THE CANADIAN PRESS

THE METRO LIST

MIKE BENHAIM
METRO

1 Ice dreams: The beginning of the NHL season is a wonderful optimistic time. Just yesterday someone in Toronto said "The Leafs are going all the way!"

The fact that he was drunk at 11 a.m. and seemingly hadn't showered since last season did not diminish his enthusiasm. Here's to bringing the cup back to Canada!

2 Yeah, baby! Congratulations to Mike Myers and wife Kelly Tisdale on the birth of their baby boy last week. They named him Spike Myers. Once again, comedians never know where to draw the line. Good luck in pre-school, Spike.

3 What the hell: Avril Lavigne played to a sparse crowd at Rogers Arena in Vancouver this week, but no biggie for such a poised professional. Now an introspective divorcee with her own line of clothing and fragrance, she delighted parents whose kids would bear witness to Avril's patriotic cheers. "It's pretty badass to be back in Canada. We're going to need you to go f---ing crazy!" Sniff, our little girl's all growned up.

4 Congratu ... wha?: The Nobel Foundation broke protocol by granting McGill grad Ralph Steinman the coveted prize for research that produced treatments for cancer and HIV, among others. The statute prohibits granting the award posthumously, but it wasn't until three hours after the award was announced that Nobel officials found out Steinman had succumbed to cancer two days earlier. Is this guy lucky or what?

5 Gun-shy: A report written by Caillin Langmann at McMaster University suggests that gun-control legislation is not responsible for Canada's reduction in firearm homicides. Langmann, who opposes strict gun laws, credits social programs and demographic shifts for the change. I think he's saying that people should have firearms but should be open to other forms of violence before resorting to them.

6 Feist-y: Canadian sweetheart Feist has emerged from a two-year hiatus with an impressive album, Metals. She took a rest after going full-speed for most of the 2000s, then compiled her new CD, spent weeks in Paris mixing it, then headed to London for mastering, and is already earning critical acclaim and money. Have I made the wrong career choice? I blame my parents.

7 Ordinary people: The 18-year-old, identity-protected young murderer from Medicine Hat is now rehabilitated. For those who don't know: At 12 years old, she helped her 23-year-old boyfriend kill her parents and eight-year-old brother because they opposed the relationship (so strict). Now, after six years at a young-offenders centre, she is deemed "low-risk" for future violence. Apparently, intensive therapy has brought her to the realization that offing the family may have been a tad harsh. Where is Jerry Springer when you need him?

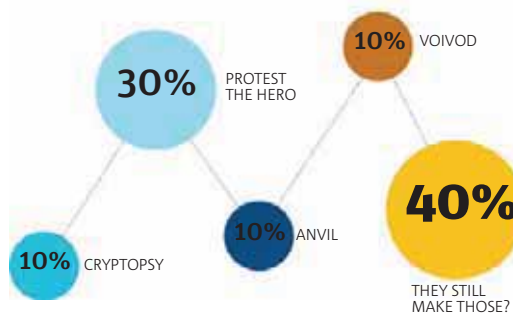

8 Oh, Canada: It seems like only yesterday I was heading to the polls to cast my vote for what I call "the party of least reluctance." But I am not ashamed to admit that I will proudly support anyone that throws me the slightest bone, even while ignoring my needs and misrepresenting my wishes. And I am not the only one who's married?

RE: Paul Sullivan's column published Oct. 5, Nobody's right if everybody's wrong

Sublimely pointless article written by an out-of-touch, capitalist sycophant.

This writer has obviously given up on life, truth, justice and good journalism. There are young people out there who will never get the chances he takes for granted based on his generation's bad choices. The article was pointless, meandering, by an over-the-hill curmudgeon. Get him to his porch and rocking chair and let someone who still lives life write in this wasted space.

RE: John Mazerolle's column published Oct. 6, Let's talk about birds and bees

In the last few years, huge efforts have been made to try and deal with negative self-image amongst young women. And you publish this? A rude, ignorant, offensive statement which sets back the fight and is hurtful to all the overweight women who read this paper.

Does God hate non-iPhone tweeting?

Members of fundamentalist Westboro Baptist Church announced plans to picket Steve Jobs' funeral — from an iPhone.

Shortly after news of the Apple founder's death Wednesday night, Margie Phelps, daughter of the church's founder, used one of Apple's iconic devices to tweet the family-run church's intention to protest at Jobs' funeral.

"Westboro will picket his funeral. He had a huge platform; gave God no glory & taught sin," she tweeted.

The message was retweeted by other iPhone-wielding Phelps family members who make up the small but controversial church.

On Thursday, Phelps responded to criticism over her use of an Apple product to send out the messages.

"Rebels mad cuz I used iPhone to tell you Steve Jobs is in hell. God created iPhone for that purpose!" she wrote.

The Kansas-based church is infamous for mounting attention-getting anti-gay protests outside military funerals.

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Synopsis

Ides of March focuses on Stephen Myers (Ryan Gosling), an idealistic campaign manager who'd do anything to win, as long as he truly believes in the candidate. He is devoted to Governor Mike Morris (Clooney), a candidate in the Democratic primary. The first hour is spent getting into the campaign, learning the machinations of a big league primary run. Clooney sets up the themes of the piece before taking a right turn (story-wise) into different territory.

Packing a political punch

► Ides of March is a smart, sophisticated look at power and politics, with great acting ► Viewers will be left wondering how many Oscar nominations it will get

Richard: Mark, I'm not going to give away the twist, but it is really then that the movie picks up steam. The first hour is good stuff, with its great acting from Paul Giamatti and Phillip Seymour Hoffman and a fascinating, if occasionally dry, look at life in the political fast lane. Then comes the blackmail, the meetings in darkened stairwells and double-crossing journalists and it becomes something darker and more interesting.

Mark: Richard, the movie had me from the opening scenes. Well-acted, great script; a smart and sophisticated film about power and politics. I knew there had to be a twist, but I liked it even before the twist. Personally, I didn't find it dry at all, but I follow political campaigns the way that most people follow sports. But you're right; once it becomes a cat and mouse game it really gets exciting.

RC: To me it feels like a sexed-up All the President's Men, a movie filled with good-looking movie stars that still packs a serious punch. Gosling impresses as he makes his way from idealism to stark realism, and Clooney looks like he was born to sit in an oval office. But it is the supporting cast who really shine. What did you think of Giamatti and Hoffman?

MB: Brilliant, both of them! But don't leave out Marisa Tomei and Evan Rachel Wood in smaller but crucial roles. Another thing about the movie that impressed me was that although the film was based on a play, it didn't feel "stagey" as a lot of these adaptations do. Clooney really opened it up and at no time did I think I was watching what had once been a play. And I'll put you on the spot — how many Oscar nominations do you think the movie will get?

RC: We're looking at a few nominations overall and maybe a win for either Giamatti or Hoffman. They both reek of the backroom, the kind of guys who invisibly pull the strings. I also thought Clooney did some good work here. If his character leans any further left he'll topple over, but it's not a love letter to the left. If anything the movie levels the playing field between the Democrats and Republicans, suggesting they're cut from the same cloth.

MB: The movie raises Clintonian ethics issues — can a politician be deeply flawed in his private life and yet be the most skilled and humane legislator in the field? And then it goes further to suggest that moral corruption is inevitable. How could I not love this flick?

Movie horror in a parka

► Mary Elizabeth Winstead

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONOVS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

With titles like Final Destination 3, the Ring Two and Black Christmas in her filmography, actress Mary Elizabeth Winstead is no stranger to on-screen horror. So a prequel to the Thing was right up her alley. Plus, the Antarctic setting didn't allow for much in the way of revealing costumes, which is something Winstead says she appreciated, considering how female characters tend to be portrayed in the horror and science fiction worlds.

She shared her rather frank opinions on the topic with Metro, as well as her unique connection to the star of the original 1982 the Thing.

So, you've tangled with Kurt Russell in Sky High, sang with him in Death Proof and now you're in the prequel to one of his films.

I know! I'm always following Kurt Russell, for some reason.

Has he seen this yet?

I have no idea. I mean, he's so not a show business type guy that I wouldn't be surprised if he didn't know that this exists. He probably in passing has heard about it, but I doubt he's worrying about it too much.

How did you feel about this being a prequel?

Knowing that it was from Strike Entertainment, it was a clue that these were the kind of people — from their past work like Dawn of the Dead — they have a grasp on how to take material and make something new out of it that's still respectful and interesting and not just a retread that's more modern and more schlocky than the first one that came around.

Comparisons to Sigourney Weaver's character in Alien is almost inevitable here.

I love them. I have a particular fondness for strong women on screen who are also realistic. It's really fun to see women kicking ass and being super-powerful, but at the same time I feel like there's this niche that we don't see of women who are just realistically strong and smart and take care of themselves but aren't beating up guys twice their size and knocking them out — things that just wouldn't happen in the real world.

A few facts

- Vital stats: Raised in Salt Lake City, Winstead, 26, was trained as a singer and ballet dancer before turning to acting, garnering attention for her role in superhero spoof Sky High.
- Cult status: Winstead is beloved by geeks the world over for playing hair dye-loving object of affection Ramona Flowers in 2010's Scott Pilgrim vs. the World.

It's interesting that filmmakers seem to think female characters have to be at one end of the spectrum.

Right. It's so shocking to me that there aren't more realistic female characters out there, because we make up half the population. Why is everything so dominated by what guys want to see? Every female character in a movie is over-sexualized or she's played as shrill and neurotic or something that's a very male perspective on different types of women that are out there.

I feel like a lot of actresses, when they play a supersexual character, they're like, "No, this is empowering and women owning our sexuality" and stuff. I get that, but I don't feel like that's what we're really seeing.

Remaking a teen classic

► Director Craig Brewer treads carefully in his version of *Footloose

► Kenny Wormald and Julianne Hough in Footloose.

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONOVS.CA

The names Ren and Ariel are touchstones for a generation. In the teen classic Footloose, big city boy Ren (Kevin Bacon) romanced Ariel (Lori Singer) and brought the boogie back to the small town of Bomont, Georgia.

Despite bad reviews, the story of teen rebellion and two-stepping struck a chord with audiences.

Director Craig Brewer knew his new big-screen version had to tread carefully, reinventing the characters without losing what made them popular.

"I think all of my cast members were able to occupy the characters without there being any sort of mimicry or impersonation of the original," he says.

The project has had big names like Zac Efron attached, but Brewer decided to go a different way.

"...I resisted having Ren McCormack being played by a 'movie star' because then you get all the baggage of their other movies tied into this one," he says.

Kenny Wormald, a choreographer and dancer, won the role after a recommendation from Justin Timberlake. For Ariel, Brewer cast the more established Julianne Hough, best known as a Dancing with the Stars champion.

Real Steel

Genre: Fantasy
Director: Shawn Levy
Stars: Hugh Jackman

For a family-friendly fantasy flick — even one about robots pummeling each other — Real Steel opens with some pretty questionable action. We meet down-on-his-luck Charlie (Hugh Jackman) pitching his robot boxer, Ambush, against a live bull at a state fair.

The film is set in a not-too-distant future when audiences' thirst for violence made human boxing obsolete in favour of the more brutal robot variety, but there's just something about watching an animal getting punched in the face that doesn't quite sit right. It doesn't help that the rest of the film's tone is actually safely in the family-friendly zone.

Robot-on-bovine violence aside, Real Steel works, minus a few bugs. The boxing itself is a marvel, with the clashing metal titans feeling incredibly real.

As for the humans, Jackman plays Charlie with just enough charm that we root for him, despite him being a pretty lackluster businessman, father and human being.

About that father bit: Charlie takes on his estranged 11-year-old son (Dakota Goyo) for a summer on the road.

Unfortunately, the film relies a bit too heavily on Goyo, possibly to distract from Jackman's character's less-than-heroic actions. And the less said about the boy's dancing, the better. — NED EHRBAR

Page One: Inside the New York Times

Genre: Documentary
Director: Andrew Rossi

This documentary spends much time trumpeting the New York Times's storied past and making predictions for its uncertain future. What it doesn't cover as well is the here and now. A portrait of a business deeply wounded by online news sources and an exodus of advertisers, it shows us an American tradition in flux. Luckily for them and for us, the New York Times may have no feistier proponent than David Carr, the central figure of the film. The passion the grizzled writer shows for the paper and its place in the history of journalism elevates the doc from infotainment puff piece to compelling argument for the survival of the analogue newspaper.

Still a slave to the song

► Bryan Ferry continues to be the gentleman of rock ► World tour touching down in Canada

CHRIS
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

The marvel of ultra-suave British pop and style icon Bryan Ferry is that his sensual charms appears to know no bounds: women of his age (Ferry just turned 66 last week) still swoon to his voice and dapper, gentlemanly presence as do tattooed and pierced ladies in their 20's. Both walks of fervent fan and all the others in between that spectrum, find their middleground at Ferry's live shows.

"It's certainly great to have an audience who stays with you of a certain age," Ferry told Metro, "but fantastic to get that young audience too. People often come to my work much later. And of course the lifelong fans have children and grandchildren and on it goes..."

After finding fame in the 1970's in his glammy art-rock band Roxy Music with hits like Love is the Drug and Avalon, Ferry concurrently launched a successful solo career, itself topping the charts with such tracks as the John Lennon cover Jealous

"He's a wonderful guitarist and a powerful player. And although I love the idea of pop music being immediate, there's something so timeless about the work we do together."

BRYAN FERRY ON DAVID GILMOUR

► Bryan Ferry will join the ranks of other rock legends and play at Orillia's Casino Rama this Saturday.

Guy and the boudoir classic Slave to Love. His most recent album is Olympia, a typically dreamy and lush effort that — much like all of his recorded solo work — is very cinematic, with typically spacey guitar work by Pink Floyd guitarist David Gilmour.

"David played on my album Boys and Girls, did Live Aid with me and we also did the song Is Your Love Strong Enough from Ridley Scott's film Legend," says Ferry.

"He's a wonderful guitarist and a powerful player. And although I love the idea of pop music being immediate, there's something so timeless about the work we do together."

His latest world tour belatedly supporting the 2010 Olympia release, touches down this Saturday at Orillia's Casino Rama, a hub lately for classic rock legends like Alice Cooper and Kiss to play a sellout show in a relatively intimate environment.

And while the proximity of tinkling slots and dazzling lights might seem like an odd fit on surface, that blend of the garish and the elegant has always been the key to Ferry's fortune.

"This current tour runs the gamut, everything from early flamboyant Roxy stuff right up to the new album. And I'm having a wonderful time..."

THE JOYS OF PINK FLOYD

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONews.CA

I fear for the future of high fidelity. With every passing month, we seem to be satisfied with sound that is merely good enough. Blame it on a decade of listening to squished MP3s through cheap ear buds.

In the Olden Days, my friends and I would descend upon stereo stores, pretending to be in the market for some new speakers. "Those JBLs look good. Could we hear them, my good man? And then let's A-B them with those Cerwin-Vegas. No, no — the ones with the 15-inch woofers."

The salesperson would dutifully find the LP we suggested and place it on the turntable. For the next 20 minutes, we'd be pummeled by sound, glorious sound. The sparkling highs. The chest-crushing bass. The sweet midrange. Once the side of the record ran out, we'd promise to think about it and leave the poor salesman commissionless. Again.

One of the albums we'd always ask for was Pink Floyd's Dark Side of the Moon because it was one of the best-produced and most carefully recorded albums of the era.

There was an emotional and physical thrill of hearing it through speakers that could handle the thump of the heartbeat that leads into Breath, the deep bass stabs of Time and the definition of Clare Torry's voice on The Great Gig in the Sky.

The music caused dopamine to flood our brains, which is literally the same neurochemical response a heroin addict has when he gets a fix.

Today, though, MP3s and cheap ear buds have taken much of the fidelity out of music.

Even modern CDs sound worse than CDs that were released in the 1980s thanks to overuse of compression. We've forgotten how good recorded music can sound. Worse yet, many people have never experienced it.

That's why I urge everyone to go out and buy the new Pink Floyd remasters along with a very good set of headphones. Clear the credit card. I don't care how.

Dark Side is the ultimate album for headphone music. Turn down the lights and turn up the music. Marvel at the subtleties of the arrangements, the texture of the production and brilliance of the musicianship.

Notice how you react physically and emotionally. This is how good music can sound. This is what excited people about music once. Surrender to it.

You may never use ear buds again.

Pharrell: Man of all trades

Pharrell Williams is aware of the consequences of his busy schedule.

"There's no social life," says the songwriter/producer/entrepreneur. "But that's OK."

Williams' latest title is the creative director of Karmaloop TV, which is currently an online destination at karmaloopTV.com but is vying to be a full-fledged cable channel. The site has begun its first big push with an initiative dubbed Reclaim Your TV, which hopes to draw in the first generation that never knew life without Internet.

"We're 'live and let live' type of people," says Williams of the Reclaim slogan. "We just want to bring people the content that we miss and the things that we'd want to see."

When do you think TV got to a point where it needed to be reclaimed?

Well, it's not really the networks' fault, or the cable providers' fault. It's the fact that the Internet has just made everything so abundant. ... There's so many different choices out there, and I could see how it could be confusing at times, and it's hard to remain focused. But that's what we're intent on doing. We intend to do a couple of things right, not 20 million things.

You have so many different ventures you're involved in, including clothing and liquor. How do you define the spark that has to be there for you to invest your time and money?

I'm always up for the challenge, and it's always got to make sense. ... Being a partner in a network is a big move; but at the same time, contributing to all things creative there is an honour.

Let's talk about music. Are you still finding time to get into the studio?

Yeah, everything from on the pop side from like Jay Sean all the way to Jay-Z.

How about J.T.? I've heard rumours that you've even been working with Justin Timberlake again.

I heard those rumours too.

Are they true?

I'm not one to talk, but we're all excited.

McCreery's moving on up

► American Idol winner Scotty McCreery takes next step in career with first album

Performing in front of millions of people for the first time, beating out thousands of other highly talented competitors, defeating nerves and self-doubt — winning American Idol may have been the easy part.

Now Scotty McCreery has to figure out how to turn victory into a high-level career.

One doesn't always translate into other. But the 17-year-old isn't thinking of his first post-Idol album, Clear As Day, as a make-or-break situation.

He prefers the long view. He wouldn't mind being the next superstar alum of Idol, successfully transitioning in the way multiplatinum stars Carrie Underwood and Kelly Clarkson have. If not, though, he's still going to play baseball in the spring. He's still going to college in a year. He's still ... Scotty. And superstar status — or lack thereof — won't change much.

"People, they bring that up a lot," McCreery said. "For me it's not so much about that aspect. The other Idols, they have a lot of success in what they're doing. They get to do music

SOFI climbing the ladder

PAT HEALY

SCENE@METRONWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

Though SOFI stands for "Some Other Female Interest," Sofia Toufa is more than the first two words of her moniker might lead you to believe.

The singer, currently on tour as a singer with Deadmau5, boasts a résumé that reads more like an iPod on shuffle, working with artists like Motley Crue, will.i.am, Britney Spears and Avril Lavigne.

As a featured performer on the sold-out Deadmau5 dates, she sings on two of the heaviest songs in the set, SOFI Needs a Ladder and One Trick Pony.

"I'm actually just doing those two songs," she says. "And it's kind of funny because I was like, 'This is the shortest show I've ever done in my life,' but at the same time it's so long, because SOFI Needs a Ladder alone is like seven minutes."

But this may be the last time Toufa plays the supporting role for a while.

She drops her Locked and Loaded EP this month.

"I absolutely feel like I'm in the waiting room right now," she says.

Working with producers Skrillex, Noisia and Millions Like Us, the songs may be the poppiest offerings to ever be grouped in the dubstep genre.

The first two songs, Broken Souvenirs and Bring Out the Devil may have a sinister feel, but the EP's final number, Again Sometime — with its huge hopeful hook and sexy slinking bass — is a contender for the make out song of 2012.

"It's basically a little trilogy," Toufa says of the EP's three songs, "a dramatic love story gone wrong."

every day for the rest of their lives. They may not have the most mainstream, big success, but they're still doing what they love. And we talked to some of the Idols when they came to the show about that. Right now, we're doing what we feel's right."

McCreery, who turns 18 on Sunday, had a fairly simple and normal life until about a year ago. From small town Garner, N.C., he was a pitcher and a member of the chorus with an unbelievably deep voice who occasionally participated in small talent shows.

A year later he's a TV star, a veteran of a national tour and he and his family face a myriad of decisions — from which songs to record to complicated financial dealings — that could have a profound effect on his life for decades to come. Way more worrisome than whether he can hit the high notes.

"There's never been a teenage boy to really make it in country music so there's no formula for what he should do," Scotty's mother, Judy, said. "So I do sit back and wonder if this is the right move ... Things have been chugging along and all the right things are happening and all the right people are in his path, so I'm just trying to let go and let nature take its course. Something's working."

Bieber to get some big-name help on X-Mas album

GETTY IMAGES

It's only October, but Justin Bieber is already thinking about sleigh bells.

The Stratford, Ont., pop star will release the star-studded Christmas CD Under the Mistletoe on Nov. 1.

The album will feature several splashy collaborations, including a duet with R&B diva Mariah Carey on her hit song, All I Want For Christmas is You.

The 17-year-old Bieber will also mingle with his mentor Usher on The Christmas Song (Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire).

And the disc will feature collaborations with '90s R&B group Boyz II Men, rapper Busta Rhymes and country trio The Band Perry.

Under the Mistletoe will be a mix of traditional tunes — including Silent Night and Santa Claus is Coming to Town — and original material, some of which was co-written by Bieber.

The CD will hit stores in a standard form and in a deluxe version with four extra tracks and a DVD featuring behind-the-scenes footage.

It'll be released roughly a week after Bieber's fellow Canadian Michael Buble launches his own holiday disc titled Christmas, which will feature Shania Twain.

- The legendary Brazilian author sits down for an exclusive Q&A

MEREDITH ENGEL

METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

Paulo Coelho needs no introduction: He's sold more than 100 million books worldwide and holds the world record for most translated books by a living author. His newest novel, Aleph, is an autobiographical account of his journey along the Trans-Siberian railroad — and across time and space — in search of spiritual fulfillment (the title refers to an enlightening experience he encountered during his trek). The book has already reached number one in countries like Brazil, Turkey, Spain and Finland. Coelho spoke with us from Geneva, Switzerland.

I read that it took you four years to gather the material for this book, but only three weeks to write it. Can you talk a little about putting it together?

I decided to travel for three months, non-stop, and I had this experience, this "Aleph." I lived through, well, things that are very difficult to explain in a book. One year ago, I said to myself, "I'm never going to write about this, it is impossible to explain." And then one year ago I was talking to my agent and I said, "I'm not going to publish a new book, I have no subject." She said, "You're never going to write about this Aleph?" I said no because it is impossible. When I returned to Geneva, I don't know what happened to me, but I sat down at the computer and I start writing, and then I wrote in three weeks. When she called me again, two and a half weeks later, I said, "You know this book that I said I'm never going to write? I'm almost in the end of it." It's like something that triggers in your soul. I realized that I have this book written by my soul.

You develop a very special relationship with a woman, Hilal, in this book. What was your wife's reaction to learning about that?

So positive, oh my God.

Did your wife ever get mad about the relationship between you and her?

No, no, no, no, no. We are very honest with each other, and so if something had happened I would tell her. She's my partner. She's the love of my life. She wants the best for me, so why should she be uncomfortable or unhappy if she knows that I put my soul in my book?

Was Hilal happy with the book?

I don't know, because she still did not read the book, but other people told her and she reads English. But she said, "I'm very suspicious about this book and I'm writing my own version of our journey and you cannot impede me in publishing it!" I'm curious about her version.

Were you nervous about sharing so many intimate details about your life?

I was not nervous but I was a little bit uncomfortable. Really feeling, Oh my God, well I should cut here, I should cut there," then I said, "This is so useless. You put your soul into it or you don't. You cannot tell the

There were rumours that you'd bring in new talent to take on Michael's role at Dunder Mifflin. How did you arrive at the decision to promote from within?

Lieberstein: The natural question was, should we continue after Steve Carell leaves? The answer was clear when we said, "Our cast is amazing and we don't need anybody else."

We still want to watch our cast. We still want to write for our cast.

Although different names were batted around at times, we never really considered changing the focus of the show to anyone else but our people.

Were members of the cast vying for that spot?

Helms: There was a lot of internal wondering and questioning what was next, "Who might be the next boss?" But I think it's a testament to the cast and the dignity of everyone involved that we all took a backseat to the creative considerations upstairs and were eager to support whatever decision came down. What is it about Andy that made him the best person to be regional manager?

Lieberstein: He can take the role of father of the family, partly through insecurity and partly through genuine affection. He's really caring and interested and empathetic. Any problem that anyone is having, he would feel very deeply — which makes him suited to be a comic relief in the show.

Considering their office rivalry, what are Andy's plans for managing Dwight Schrute (Rainn Wilson)?

Helms: Dwight is someone who responds very well to a firm hand of leadership.

Andy is searching for that a little bit, but in that first episode we started to see the very first inkling of a backbone in Andy.

I'm excited about it because it makes Andy's leadership more plausible, and it also shows you where Andy has to go.

Dwight provides a constant friction for that.

American Horror Story involves a kleptomaniac neighbour, murder-suicide and sex with a ghost in a full-body latex suit.

And that's just the first hour.

The latest from Ryan Murphy and Brad Falchuk — yes, the team behind Glee — finds the duo in a much more Nip/Tuck state of mind.

Murphy calls his new FX Canada drama a “psychosexual thriller.”

It's scary alright, with an intense focus on sexual frustration and fragile relationships — the motivation for the Harmons (Dylan McDermott and Connie Britton) to move their teen daughter (Taissa Farmiga) across the country and into a (haunted!) house is a fresh start after Dad's affair and Mom's miscarriage.

“The show talks about all kinds of American horror stories that we are being bombarded with on a day-to-day basis,” Murphy says.

► Connie Britton, Dylan McDermott and Taissa Farmiga star in American Horror Story.

“The main thing when we were writing the script, it was never really about horror, although that certainly was in the water. It really was about a marriage and infidelity.”

But don't worry — there are plenty of old-school scares in the pilot, which opens with a gorgeously creepy homage to horror classics like The Shining.

“When we were coming up with this, I'm like, ‘Remember how good Dark Shadows was, how gothic?’” Murphy says of the

The Good Wife is actually good

LEGAL DRAMA. The best part of Julianna Margulies' well-deserved recent Emmy win?

Maybe it'll encourage more people to check out The Good Wife, a rich legal drama that has only gotten better through its two seasons-plus run.

In Sunday's episode, Alicia, Will and his ex are thrust into court-ordered mediation and Diane and Eli disagree on the best way to approach a dairy company's PR disaster. (Global, CBS)

Stick with it

SCI-FI. Fringe isn't the most welcoming show for newcomers.

Now in its fourth season, the twisty sci-fi series has a deep mythology that can confuse even devoted viewers, but the show is so strong, it's worth the investment — even if you initially feel as bewildered as the perpetually muddled Walter (the excellent John Noble), who in Friday's episode grows increasingly distracted by hallucinations.

Meanwhile, the Fringe team investigates when the bodies of two pre-teens are found in an advanced state of decomposition just hours after they bullied another boy. (Citytv, Fox)

Ashton moves out

► Friends deny it's because of his cheating

Ashton Kutcher has reportedly moved out of the home he shares with Demi Moore, according to Life & Style, though a source close to Kutcher says it has less to do with his current cheating scandal and more with trying to help his wife confront her own issues.

"Demi had been sober for a long time — decades — but recently it's gotten bad," the source says. "He may have fooled around with this girl, but his wife is his priority. Ashton's trying to deal with Demi's problems."

Aniston on baby: maybe is OK

Jennifer Aniston knows there's plenty written about her and her possible desires to be a mom. Even a recent visit to the doctor with boyfriend Justin Theroux prompted speculation about family planning.

But despite reports, Aniston isn't baby-mad. "It's not what you read. There's no desperation," she tells Elle magazine. "If it's meant to be, it's meant to be. I'm at peace with whatever the plan is."

Mel C: Spice life wasn't so easy

Melanie Chisholm — or Mel C, as she was known in the Spice Girls — admits that the glare of media attention during the girl group's heyday caused her to become depressed and bulimic. "I was young and impressionable, and I found it hard to read about

Hard to keep a secret

Kristen Stewart has taken great pains not to confirm her relationship with Twilight co-star Robert Pattinson, but one candid moment at a photo shoot for the U.K. edition of GQ may have undone all that work. The interviewer overheard Stewart say she hoped to travel around England "because my boyfriend is English," though when asked about the comment during their interview the next day, the actress uncomfortably admitted, "I never would have said that if I knew you were interviewing me." ● METRO

Barrymore tying knot soon?

Drew Barrymore "is yearning to get married and have kids," a source tells Us Weekly. So it's a good thing that her boyfriend, Will Kopelman, has been considering proposing, possibly popping the question "around the one-year mark of their dating" this winter, the source says.

"He's madly in love and knows she's the one, but he just needs a bit more time." That takes care of marriage, but when it comes to babies, Barrymore may not be so patient: "I could see her getting pregnant before they get married," the source adds.

Depp apologizes for comment

Johnny Depp's comparison of having his photo taken to being raped didn't sit well with the Rape, Abuse and Incest National Network, according to Hollyscoop.

Depp had made the comment during an interview with Vanity Fair, and after the advocacy group made their concerns known, the actor was quick to apolo-

A toast to the side dishes

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA

If you're into wine, you have to love Thanksgiving. There's no gifts, no egg hunts and no dressing up. Thanksgiving is about food, family and a good bottle of vino.

Though roast turkey is the star, it isn't your main concern when it comes to a liquid marriage with your festive feast. All those side dishes that make a huge holiday meal special, influence the table more than the gobble.

As grapes go, pinot noir is a classic match on the red side (think California) with chardonnay (one that's not too oaky from France or Canada) topping my list of whites.

If you want to think outside the bottle, a spicy white grape like gewürztraminer or a plush, floral grape like viognier are options.

In red, France's Beaujolais region is famous for its gamay-based wines with a rich, berry-fruited version like the strikingly packaged Georges Duboeuf 2010 Brouilly ($16.95 - $22.49) meaty enough to meet the turkey head on and soothing enough to make nice with all the fixings. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. Turkey safety

The safest way to be sure that your turkey is done is to check it with a meat thermometer.

Temperatures should reach minimums of 180°F (82°C) deep in the thigh and 165°F (74°C) in the center of the stuffing.

TAKE CONTROL OF YOUR MENTAL HEALTH

IN MANY WAYS, PRESERVING MENTAL HEALTH IS MUCH LIKE MAINTAINING A HEALTHY BODY

Strategies like going to the gym and eating properly help keep you mentally as well as physically fit.

And just like it's up to you to keep your heart and bones healthy, you also have to take control of your own mental health. "You own it; it's your mind, and you need to give it as much attention as you give to your physical body," says Connie Krahenbil, Executive Director, Canadian Mental Health Association Manitoba, Winnipeg.

Managing stress is a big part of maintaining mental health, and each person has to discover the stress management approach that works best for him or her, says Krahenbil.

"Maybe your thing is going to the spa once a month, or maybe your thing is walking every day." She refers to the parable of the man who mentally hangs his troubles on a "worry tree" outside his house every day so they won't interfere with his family life.

The key is to find the right balance, says Krahenbil. Her own strategy is to make a conscious effort to turn off her Blackberry every evening, to meditate, to be outside in the fresh air, to find time to spend on herself, and to exercise as much as she can. "It doesn't have to be going to the gym; it could be something like gardening."

Getting enough sleep, too, is another "precious" ingredient to mental health, says Krahenbil, who takes steps to avoid sleep "getting behind me" because she knows what that can do to her overall health.

Just as with physical health, it's important to be committed to mental fitness and to incorporate these steps into your everyday life.

Recognizing when you need to "reach out" and talk to someone you trust is also important. Everyone has felt sad or blue at one time or another, but too often, you don't want to bother anyone so you withdraw, maybe cry alone in your room. But when you do talk to a friend, "you always feel 100 times better," says Krahenbil.

Sometimes these strategies aren't enough and you may need to seek out an expert. But this should be no different than someone who has diabetes, who has to see his doctor regularly and take insulin or other medications to treat the disease.

It's important to acknowledge that you have an illness and to accept it. "We all have our crosses to bear," says Krahenbil.

And it's important not to rely solely on medication such as antidepressants to make you well. "The work is up to you," says Krahenbil. "Taking those pills is just half of it, just like insulin is just half of it for a person with diabetes."

DID YOU KNOW?

- World Mental Health Day takes place on Monday. This year's theme is "investing in mental health."
- According to Health Canada, one in five Canadians will experience a mental illness in their lifetime. The remaining four will have a friend, family member or colleague who will.

JACK HOLLINGSWORTH/DIGITAL VISION/THINKSTOCK

MENTAL HEALTH A BASIC HUMAN RIGHT

In the future, mental health will be viewed as a basic human right across Canada.

"Just as with physical disabilities and HIV/AIDS, mental health will be linked to human rights, empowerment, dignity and respect," says Peter Coleridge, National Chief Executive Officer, Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA) Toronto.

Making this happen will need more than merely messages and campaigns "that in isolation, don't have a sustained impact," says Coleridge. It will also require changes in public policies, behaviours and attitudes to mental health in the work place, in schools, and elsewhere.

The CMHA vision for the future also includes the 120-plus CMHA regional offices not only continuing to respond to local mental health needs, but also working together in a synergistic way to improve understanding surrounding mental health issues.

Canada will soon have its own a national mental health strategy, says Coleridge.

"Does the health care system see all of my symptoms?"

Canada's doctors believe a strong mental health strategy will lead to a healthier population.

MINIMIZE HOLIDAY STRESS

It's Thanksgiving, a time to sit down for a traditional turkey dinner with family and friends. Sounds ideal. Trouble is, you're dreading it.

Here are some tips from Sandy Milakovic, Chief Executive Officer, Canadian Mental Health Association, Peel Branch, to minimize that mid-October stress.

LOWER YOUR EXPECTATIONS Remember that things don't have to be perfect.

SET PRIORITIES Pick your favourite thing to do — baking a pumpkin pie, for example — and get other people to organize the rest of the turkey dinner.

ASK FOR HELP (and accept the help that's given). Even very young members of the family can set the table — but don't complain if the forks aren't in the proper place.

BUILD SOME BREAKS INTO YOUR HOLIDAY To avoid being overwhelmed, spend time alone doing something you enjoy.

DON'T OVERINDULGE Alcohol is a depressant and loosens tongues, so you may say or do something you'll regret. And eating too much food can make you feel lethargic.

TAKE DEEP BREATHS This slows you down and allows you time to respond to a difficult situation.

DELIVERING HOPE FOR MENTAL HEALTH

Canada Post recently unveiled a stamp that has a unique claim to fame. The company issues an annual fundraising stamp supporting mental health, its cause of choice. This year's stamp design was the first in the company's 160-year history to be chosen by public vote.

Last November, a competition was held to find a design for this year's stamp, which raises funds for the Canada Post Foundation for Mental Health. THE PUZZLE — designed by Terrebonne, Que., resident Miriane Majeau — received the most points and now adorns more than 3.5 million stamps available at post offices across Canada. A dollar from the sale of every booklet of 10 stamps is donated to the Canada Post Foundation for Mental Health.

"Dealing with mental health issues is like putting a puzzle together," says Majeau. "As you connect the pieces, something beautiful and whole is revealed."

Since 2008, Canada Post employees have helped raise nearly $5 million for the Foundation, and $4.6 million in grants has been disbursed to nearly 100 non-profit organizations across Canada.

STAY WITHIN YOUR BUDGET Finances are a huge stressor. Consider celebrating the holiday with something other than a sit-down dinner. Spending time with your family could mean going on a hike together.

HELP OTHERS Volunteering at a food bank or donating clothing to families in need are guaranteed to boost your spirits and help you cope with any stressor that comes your way.

THINK OF THOSE WHO ARE ALONE Visit them or invite them over for something like a potluck dinner.

CALL FOR HELP IF YOU NEED IT If the holiday is making you feel depressed or down, call the crisis number in your community. Remember that feeling depressed is normal.

Reimer outduels Price

► Leafs goalie gets shutout against Montreal in season opener ► Phaneuf, Lombardi score

That was a fine beginning to the Maple Leafs' season.

The Leafs opened with a tidy 2-0 victory over the Montreal Canadiens — a division rival they're sure to be battling in March for a playoff spot — by playing the kind of hockey coach Ron Wilson has been preaching.

They got goals from their stars — Dion Phaneuf, with a howitzer of a slapshot — and the fourth line — Matthew Lombardi, short-handed no less. Phaneuf picked up an assist on Lombardi's goal for a two-point night.

And James Reimer, putting to rest any doubts that were raised with a 3.00-plus goals-against average in the pre-season — was outstanding in net. He outdueled Carey Price, the established goaltending star of the Canadiens. That's something Reimer will be called upon to do time and again this season in a Northeast Division that is packed with star goalies such as Tim Thomas and Ryan Miller.

Kudos should also go to some otherwise unsung heroes, who did so many of the little things: David Steckel, who seemed to win just about every face-off; Tyler Bozak, who kept lifting the sticks of Canadiens players to clear pucks; Mike Komisarek, who hit everything; and Carl Gunnarsson, who just seemed so steady on the blue-line.

With the win, Wilson ties Bryan Murray for sixth on the all-time NHL list with 620 career victories.

Phil Kessel set up Phaneuf's third-period goal. That's 11 games in a row with at least a point for Kessel going back to last season. Mats Sundin was the last Leaf to get a point in 11 straight in the 2005-06 season (March 15-April 15).

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20

Today's Venus-Neptune link makes this a great day for friendships and affairs of the heart.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 You seem to be enchanted more by things than by people at the moment. Get your priorities right.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21

Everything looks new and everything seems possible. In short, it's a great time to be a Gemini.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Let others know what you're willing to put up with and what you consider is going too far — and mean it.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23

This is the kind of day when you must get out among people and let your exuberant Leo nature light up the world.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 If you have fallen out with someone recently, this is the perfect day to make amends.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 You have so much good karma waiting to be used, and the planets signal this is the time to cash in.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Don't allow yourself to be intimidated by someone who thinks that ranting gets things done.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21

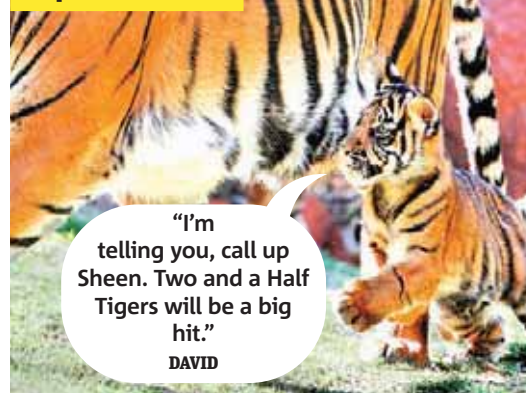

You will gain more today by doing less — not just a little bit less but a lot less. Sit back and chill.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Your rivals will be awed by your ability to always finish ahead of them. You're a natural.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 If you're tempted to judge someone of whose lifestyle you don't approve, remember: live and let live.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. If someone whose judgment you trust offers you advice, you'd be wise to listen. SALLY BROMPTON
